Happy Nuptial Celebration. At 8 o'clock last evening St. Paul's Epis copal church was completely filled with the elite of Council Bluffs society, who had assembled to witness the ceremonies that were to unite for life the fortunes of Dr. Frank T. Seybert, a well known physician, and Miss Ida B. Wies, an attractive and deservedly popular young society lady of this city. The evening was oppressively warm, and the very large number assembled rendered the church somewhat uncomfortable. Every one was on the qui vive of expectancy, and their patience was rewarded at twenty minutes past eight, as the bridal party entered the hand-some structure and walked slowly up the aisle to the altar, where Rector Mackey and the groom a and party were waiting to receive them. First came the boy choir singing the "Bridal Chorus." Then the ushers, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Wies, the bridesmaids, the bride and maid of honor. The bride was dressed in cream faille, with a tulle veil, and carried a beautiful bouquet.

As the final words, "What God hath joined together let no person put asunder," were said, the edifice was filled with the notes of the "Damascus Triumphal March," and the party marched down the aisle to their carriages. Immediately following the services at the church, a reception was given at the home of the bride's father, "Mr. Peter Wies, on Eighth street, where the newly wedded couple received the congratulations of their friends under a canony of newly wedded couple received the congratu-lations of their friends under a canopy of smilax and roses. ## BEE. THAT ARREST FOR MURDER.

The Sensation in the Wording of the Charge.

THE MOTOR LINE IN COURT

An Attempt to Dissolve the Injunction -Death of Mrs. W. F. Sapp-Saloons Opening Again-A Landslide Accident.

Death By Abortion.

"Arrest Mrs. Clementine Scott, on charge of murder." Such was the sensational telegram received by Sheriff O'Neill, as sent by Sheriff Fullerton, of Burlington, Mrs. Scott was hunted up at once, and found to be a middle-aged woman, with two little children, occupying rooms in a business block on Upper Broadway. She had been here about three weeks, and was endeavoring to earn a living by following her trade as dressmaker. The woman was terribly surprised at having the hand of the law laid upon her in such a harsh way, and the shock threatened to prove too much for her. She became hysterical, and went from one spell into another until her condition could but excite sympathy even from those who knew nothing about the affair beyond the terrible accusation that she had been concerned in a murder.

Sheriff Fullerton arrived on yestreday's train, and from him and others, in addition to the statements of the woman herself, it appears that she will have little difficulty in claring herself from the horrible accusation. The charge is the outgrowth of circumstances attendant upon the death of Mrs. Scott's daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. Smith, who, it is said, died as the result of an abortion. It is claimed by the unfortunate Mrs. Smith's father that Mr. Smith, who is a son of Mrs. Scott by a former marriage, the at-tendant physician, Dr. Franklin, of Donald-son, Lee county, and Mrs. Scott were all conson, Lee county, and Mrs. Scott were an con-cerned in the matter, and that the three were alike responsible legally for Mrs. Smith's death, Dr. Franklin and Mr. Smith were ar-rested yesterday, the former at his home, the other in Burlington.

other in Burlington.

Smith and his wife were married about two years ago. They have been living in Burlington, and nothing appeared to mar the happiness of the young couple until a short time ago, Mrs. Smith was taken very ill and time ago, Mrs. Smith was taken very ill and subsequently died. She was only twentyone years of age, and her husband only nineteen. Mrs. Scott, the mother of Mr. Smith, had lived for some time in Donaldson, Lee county, and Dr. Franklin had always been their family physician. Mrs. Scott had a rather shiftless husband, and was not only compelled to depend largely upon her own exertions for securing a livelihood for herself and children, but lived so unhappily with her husband that a separation resulted. her husband that a separation resulted. Learning of the illness of her son's wife, she went to Burlington, and her family physician was called in to attend the sick wo-man. Mrs. Scott claims that she had heard Mrs. Smith threaten to take something and had tried to pursuade her not to do so. She is satisfied that Mrs. Smith did not listen to this advice, but insisted on her course, and that the death which followed was the result of her own act. When Mrs. Scott left there for this city, about three weeks ago, Mrs Smith had so far recovered as to be able to be up and around. Since taking up her residence here she received a telegram, which was a great surprise to her, announcing her death. This is now followed by her arrest charged with being concerned in the affair. Mrs. Scott has relatives in this city, who are most highly respected, and who stand by her in this trouble most stoutly, declaring that the charge is preposterous. They are confident that it will be clearly shown that she had nothing whatever to do with it, exshe had nothing whatever to do with it, except so far as she had used all her influence to persuade the foolish young wife to desist from any acts which might thus result in death and disgrace. The prosecution is urged by the father of Mrs. Smith, Mr.

Fullerton, and while it is not known what testimony he relies upon, the feeling here among those who have heard the details, and who have known Mrs. Scott, is greatly in who have known Mrs. Scott, is greatly in

It was a sad departure last evening, when Sheriff Fullerton and Mrs. Scott, with her two children, took the train for Burlington. Friends endeavored to persuade Mrs. Scott to leave her children here fer the present, but she became so hysterical at the thought of parting with them, that it was deemed best to let them go with her.

The Motor Running in Court. Among the injunctions secured against the Manawa motor line a year ago were two in favor of the Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. One was issued by Judge Carson, restraining the motor company from crossing the railway track; the other was issued by Judge Deemer, restraining the motor company from condemning for right of way across their track. These temporary writs seem to have been pretty permanent as they have stuck for a year now. Yesterday an effort was made to secure a dissolution. Judge Thornell was on the bench, in place of Judge Deemer, and hearing the matter for him. In accord ance with the rule he did not feel at liberty to hear arguments in regard to the injunction ssued by Judge Carson. Attorney Holmes epresenting the motor company, desired hat Judge Carson sit with Judge Thornell, so that both mjunctions could be considered at once, but Mr. Haldene, representing the railway, refused to enter into any such ar-

There was a good deal of hair splitting in dulged in. Various preliminary motions were made and papers filed. At last an attempt was made by Mr. Haldene to get the hearing put off. He wanted time to file some affidayits, and he could not prepare these until his pardner, Mr. Wright, returned from lowa City. When the matter came up the until his pardner, Mr. Wright, returned from lowa City. When the matter came up the other day Mr. Wright was here, but Mr. Haldene was in Nebraska, and Mr. Wright got the matter continued because Mr. Haldene was the one to attend to it. From what Mr. Haldene said yesterday it appeared that Mr. Wright was the one to get the facts, while he (Haldene) was the one to present the law, so that the right the one to present the law, so that the right one was absent at the wrong time, or the wrong one at the right time.

Arrangements were patched up so that the hearing went on. The substance of the hearing went on. The substance of the plaim for dissolving the injunction was that if the Milwaukee & St. Paul had any interest in the street sought to be crossed this interest was hable to condemnation, the same as any property, and that the company had an adequate relief in court if not satisfied with the condemnation. It was shown that all the other railways, similarly located, had entered into contracts by which the motor line was allowed to cross their tracks, and this railway company alone held out, refusing to make company alone held out, refusing to make any such agreement. Mr. Reed, of the motor company, declared that he stood willing to make a like contract with this company, but could not get its consent. Judge Thornell took the matter under advisement. In view of the importance of the enterprise and the interest taken by the pub-lic generally, it is hoped that a speedy decision will be reached. The crossings are ready to put in as soon as these technicalities can be disposed of, and then this enterprise with the others dependent upon it can be crowded along to the satisfaction of the Death of Mrs. W. F. Sapp.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. T. J. Evans received a telegram from W. F. Sapp, jr., who is now in New York City, announcing the death of his mether, Mrs. W. F. Sapp, which sad event occurred at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The deceased had been a constant sufferer for many months, and all that devoted hearts could suggest or loving hands could do to arrest the fatal allment was done. Changes of location, climate and the most able medical skill were employed, but all without more than temporary benefit. For some time Mrs. Sapp had been in New York, accompanied by her son, and until Sunday ast her recovery was expected. On the day last mentioned Colonel Sapp was notified by elegraph that a change for the worse had occurred in his wife's condition, and he immediately started for New York. He arrived at the bedside of the departing one before the final summons came. The body will be interred at Mt. Vernon, O., but on what

Her magnificent charity will remain a beloved memory in many hearts. During the years memory in many hearts. During the years in which her husband represented his district in the national congress Mrs. Sapp passed much of her time in Washington and in that society, as at home she was a recognized leader. By her-death many hearts are called to mourn and the truest sympathy goes out to those who were wont to use the endearing terms, wife and mother.

Opening Up the Saloons. It seems that the saloon question is by no means permanently settled in this city, as the places that closed so quietly a short time ago, during the session of the district court, are now reopening one by one, and appearances indicate that the majority of them will be running again full blast. Chief Lucas yesterday reported that in addition to the Mint (which has not been shut up even for a Mint (which has not been shut up even for a single day), the Turf had been reopened, also the "Bucket of Blood" on Upper Broadway, and two places on Lower Broadway, near the Union Avenue hotel. The glasses and other paraphernalia have also reappeared on the bar at the Palace. Mayor Ronrer insists that he will not deviate at all from the stand he has taken, and firmly asserts that every man who runs a saloon must contribute $25 a month to the city treasury. Chief Lucas says he mas received orders to close every place that does not pay the fine, and states that he will comply with the order in every instance until it is countermanded. As the fines are now several days over due, it is promble that the matter will be settled it is probable that the matter will be settled in a very short time, either by the saloon keepers coming to time with their "ante," of itting to the mayor's smooth little game of "freezeout." Some of the salcon men take very kindly to the idea of running temperance (f) places, and, as a result, the lemonade stands are rapidly on the increase. The saloonists are exceedingly reticent concerning their future plans, and express themselves as "waiting to see how the thing will pan out."

Crushed By a Landslide.

An accident occurred at about 10 o'clock vesterday morning on South Seventh street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, by which John Krineker came near sustaining fatal injuries. He was one of a party of workmen in the employ of Contractor Moore, engaged in excavating for the sewer. The engaged in excavating for the sewer. The trench was about five feet deep and the raid had loosened the bank so that it was in a very insecure condition. Foreman Butler had not noticed any signs of caving, and the first intimation any of them had of impending danger was when twenty feet of the bank crashed down upon them. Krineker was struck by the falling mass and sustained very minful injuries his head, shoulders and very painful injuries, his head, shoulders and arms being badiy bruised, but no bones were broken. Two of the other men managed to get out of the way, and escaped unhurt. The injured man was taken home and his bruises attended to, and he will be able to return to work in a few days. The well known treacherous condition of wet dirt banks in this viennity calls for greater vigilence on the part of gang foremen in charge of excavating work. The lives of their workmen are almost under their thumbs, and remissness on their part in this particular has led to three fatal accidents here within the past year.

Harris Hotly Harrassed. Yesterday afternoon two sporting representatives of the colored population became nvolved in a little difficulty as to the owner ship of some money, and guns were drawn to settle the matter. The racket occurred at the Parlor restaurant, and the first thing that outsiders knew of the trouble was when one of the pair appeared on the street and took to his heels with the other in close pur-suit, revolver in hand. The pursued fled up Washington avenue to where he lived and obtained a revolver, and then started in search of his enemy. The row was about to be renewed on North Main street, when be renewed on North Main street, when Officer Oleson appeared, and Harris, the darkey with the money and big revolver, skipped out again, but this time his pursuer was a blonde gentleman in blue clothes. Quite a crowd had collected to see the fun, and there was a lengthy line of chasers as the darkey dashed into Main street and turned the corner at the City mills. Here the track was lost for a time until one of the the track was lost for a time until one of the millers told of seeing the fugitive run down the bank into Indian creek. The trail was picked up again, and Mr. Darkey was ousted from his hiding place in the brush. He started up Washington to First street, thence to Broadway, and started for the wooded bluff in the eastern part of the city. By this time the crowd of pursuers had By this time the crowd of pursuers had grown to about five hundred, and the number swelled rapidly, as everyone who saw it joined in the chase. The fugitive ran like a deer, and held a good lead on his pursuers which he constantly increased. Oleson began to puff, and "Shorty" Thomas jumped into the lead. Charley was bound to be in at the death, so be jumped on a horse the death, so he jumped on a horse standing near the sidewalk and again set the pace for the field. Four legs were too much for two, and the chase was being rapidly overhauled, when he left the street at Geise's brewery and struck over the hill through the vineyard. Oleson abandoned the horse, and started on foot again with renewed vigor. His short breathing spell had helped him out wonderfully, and he made two jumps to the darkey's one. The fugitive did not know where he was going and apparently did not care, Down the hill he tore, tato a swamp and barb wire fence, and the run was over. The officer came up and fished him out, and a passing express wagon was called into use to take the party to the city jail. The run of over two miles was a lively one, and the representatives of the local press figured con-spicuously as sprinters. The affair occa-sioned more excitement than anything since the closing of the saloons, and the stopping of the trains on the Manawa motor line. The prisoner, Harris, had $42.55 in money upon him, and was locked up to await an examina-tion. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the other combatant, Al Henderson, and he was also taken into custody. The origin of the trouble dates back some months to a row in Kansas City. It will be explained Paving Contracts Let.

WILL STONE RESIGN! And now comes a rumor, which, if verified, will doubtless result in the promotion of an other Omaha man. It is said that H. B Stone, general manager of the Chicago, Bur lington & Quincy, will ma short time sever his connection with the road. The reasons for this action on the part of Mr. Stone are said to have arisen from inability to success-fully manage the affairs of the road during the great strike. His successor will without doubt be G. W. Holdrege, of the B. & M. When the trouble began Mr. Holdrege contended that if the road won the battle will its engineers it would win at too great a cost but when it came he settled down to business and all things considered, kept his end of the road in splendid condition. But for his un-tiring efforts the business of the company would have suffered much more than it did. The Burlington has not a man in their service, nor can they find one on any other sys-tem, who could fill the position of general manager more creditably than he. At-present nothing definite is known concerning the time when Mr. Stone steps out. In fact, it is not presumed that anyone here should know. All information will come
